A better
Rotorua
for all

Twenty-five years ago the sale of a power company sparked the formation of Rotorua Energy Charitable Trust. Today, there'd be few people in our community who haven't been positively impacted by the funding decisions of the Trust over the past quarter of a century.

As a community-focused, not-for-profit organisation, the decisions of the Trust are centered around its kaupapa of making a better Rotorua for all. The Trust continues to focus its funding decisions on the areas where we believe we can make the greatest impact – Health and the First 1,000 Days, Education and Employment, Strengthening Communities, Vibrancy and Energy and the Environment.

The balance of supporting the community today with grants that make a meaningful impact, while ensuring the Trust can continue to support generations into the future, means a focus on responsibly managing and growing our assets.

Over the past 25 years our initial capital of $32 million has grown to more than $155 million with over $111 million invested back into our community.

Chairman's report

Kia ora koutou,

As this term draws to a close and we prepare for another election cycle, it's with a real sense of honour that I present this year's annual report showcasing just some of the ways Rotorua Trust has fulfilled its kaupapa in creating a better Rotorua for all.

First though, it is with sadness I acknowledge the passing of our Trustee, Aunty Bea Yates, in September last year. While her time as a Trustee was relatively brief, Aunty Bea's influence and involvement with the Trust was significant, spanning many years before her election.

Aunty Bea played an influential role in helping to shape our Trust kaupapa, sharing her knowledge and passion for the Rotorua community and its success. She has been greatly missed around the table - moe mai e te rangatira.

During the past 12 months we've continued to affirm our strategic plan, ensuring it best matches our kaupapa. As part of this we've continued our focus on the five key areas where we believe we can make the most significant improvements in our community. These key areas are health and the first 1,000 days of a child's life, education and employment, vibrancy, strengthening communities, and energy and the environment.

This report highlights several of the grants we've approved in the past 12 months, but I want to take the chance to touch on some particularly important ones.

I am especially proud of our historic joint venture with Ngati Whakaue Education Endowment Trust: a wonderful example of the way we're collaborating with other organisations in our community to make an even greater impact. By contributing $250,000 to this successful programme, NWEET has been able to extend its support of numeracy and literacy programmes to even more Rotorua schools.

Another collaboration is the decision to support two significant capital works projects – the Sir Howard Morrison Performing Arts Centre (SHMPAC) and Rotorua's iconic museum. We have approved $1.5 million towards the restoration and redevelopment of the community space of SHMPAC to ensure it is a facility that's fit for our community – both now and into the future.

We also announced our commitment to support $10 million towards the restoration of the Museum, which has remained closed since November 2016 due to earthquake safety concerns. This building is a local treasure and we're proud to be in a position where we can commit a significant amount to help make the rebuild a reality.

The range of organisations -big and small- which we've helped fund truly covers the full spectrum of our community. These range from more than 100 operating grants, to helping Rotorua's six Te Arawa kapa haka teams and supporters attend the nationals in Wellington, right through to funding some bold initiatives like the Pūwhakamua programme which helps rehabilitate former prisoners and the Empowered Learning Trust which screens young people for vision and hearing difficulties.

While there are hundreds of organisations making a real difference in our Rotorua community, Trustees remain mindful of our role as guardians of our community's funds for future generations and spending that money wisely. With this in mind, last year we decided to finish offering the Trust's tertiary study awards. This decision was made because of the large range of scholarships and government support now available to tertiary students, and a real belief our education dollar could be better spent.

Finally, in the past year we made a significant change to the Trust's deed, implementing a maximum trustee term of nine years. This is an outcome of the 2016 referendum, when 55% of voters were in favour of maximum terms. The change comes into force from November's election.

We've made significant progress this year, none of which would have been possible without the hard work and dedication of my fellow Trustees. The range of skills, wisdom and insight that each person brings makes the Trust such a success.

I'd also like to thank the staff, Tony, Lee-Anne and Jackie, who ensure the smooth and efficient operation of the Trust.

It is our privilege to support so many organisations which give so much to make Rotorua the special place it is.

Ngā mihi,
Stewart

Trust Manager's report

As we mark 25 years since the Trust's formation, our operations team continues to work hard to ensure we help meet the changing needs of our Rotorua community, both now and into the future.

It has now been four years since the decision to outsource our fund management to Mercer (NZ) Ltd, and our relationship with them continues to strengthen. An external review of Mercer's performance carried out this year reinforced the decision made by former trustees that they were the right organisation to manage the Trust's investments. Despite a turbulent year on world financial markets, the Trust fund produced a solid annual return of 7.2 percent.

Total Trust investments have now risen to over $155 million, allowing us to be in a strong financial position to support both this generation and those to come. At the same time, we've approved funding of more than $4 million to a range of organisations this past year, bringing total grants made by the Trust to over $111 million.

This past 12 months has also seen a change in staffing at the Trust. In July, we farewelled grants assessor Alison Perrin who, for many, had been a face of the Trust for the past 12 years, helping hundreds of community organisations with their grant applications. She's now enjoying a much deserved retirement.

In her place we've welcomed Jackie McCullough, who has quickly settled into the new role and made her mark on the position. Jackie has brought with her a range of skills and it's refreshing to see the impact she is making.

The move to online grant applications at the end of last year is one which was long-awaited and is already making the grants process even more efficient for both the Trust and applicants. This allows us more time to focus on achieving community outcomes, the very essence of our role. The system has been generally well-received by groups, and we'll continue to look at ways to evolve.

One of these has been the increasing focus on community collaboration and the importance of working together to drive change. We continue to work with a range of local entities, from other funders to government departments, the Rotorua Lakes Council, Lakes District Health Board, iwi and business groups to ensure we are making a better Rotorua together.

This year we've also introduced a monthly online newsletter to help stakeholders stay informed of the work we're doing, and we continue to highlight our work through our active Facebook page. Helping organisations we support share their work is a focus of the articles we share on our website.

Our Trustees have continued to work positively together and, with the passing of Aunty Bea, have rallied to take on her grant portfolio responsibilities and build on the relationships she had established.

As we prepare for the next elections in November, I'd encourage those thinking about stepping into a governance role to consider what they can offer the Trust, and help oversee the next chapter in the Trust's legacy.

Finally, I must thank our small but effective team who continue to support both myself and the Trustees. To Lee-Anne, an ever present part of the Trust for almost 25 years, and to Jackie, who has quickly made a mark in her first year. Their efforts, supported by BDO, Mercer and all of our suppliers, make a real difference.

We are privileged to work in this awesome community that we call home.

Kia ora rawa atu

Tony

health and the first 1,000 days

A healthy community has positive impacts across all aspects of life, from attendance at work and school, to participation in the community and enjoyment of what's on offer. We also know from research that there's no time more important when it comes to shaping a child's future than the first 1,000 days - from conception through to about two years' old. Our support of health and wellbeing focuses on this critical time, while also supporting a range of initiatives to maintain good health and help assist with added support where there are challenges.

HEALTH SPOTLIGHT:

KidsCan

Children turning up to school cold, wet, hungry and not in a position to learn are some of the situations some Rotorua schools are dealing with on a regular basis.

That's where KidsCan steps in – with the support of Rotorua Trust – helping Rotorua children to attend school in a position to learn once they're in the classroom.

Rotorua Trust has had a long association supporting KidsCan. The most recent $10,000 grant is providing practical assistance and helps buy raincoats, shoes and socks, plasters, tissues, headlice treatment, hot meals, and other snacks.

The benefits are widespread – well fed children learn better, healthier children have fewer days off and self-esteem is boosted.

KidsCan is now in 20 schools in the Rotorua district, with more than 4400 children having access to KidsCan programmes.

HEALTH AND THE FIRST 1,000 DAYS SPOTLIGHT:

Korowai Aroha's Tane Takitu Ake

Transforming the lives of Rotorua men – and their wider whanau - Korowai Aroha's Tane Takitu Ake takes a holistic approach to what “healthy” means.

The innovative programme combines social, physical and clinical interventions, providing tools and skills to make changes and focuses on restoring mana and strength, so the men can become role models in their whanau and the wider community.

Looking at the four pillars of physical, mental, spiritual and whanau connection, the programme addresses clinical issues but also looks at what contributes to wellbeing in the broader sense.

The men referred to the programme often are facing serious health conditions like heart disease or diabetes, while depression and low self-esteem are also issues. The programme, which means “to stand up together as men” focuses on Maori men helping Maori men – connecting through culture and shared learnings.

It gives participants an understanding of their health conditions, helps them to manage them, introduces men to physical activity, healthy eating and also gives them the opportunity to reconnect with their Maori culture – balancing the clinical with the cultural.

As well as improving their health and wellbeing, and that of their whanau, many participants have gone on to find employment and improve relationships thanks to the insight the programme gives them.

education and employment

A critical factor in future success and wellbeing is ensuring everyone receives a quality education and the support they need to successfully transition into the workforce. The wide-reaching impact of education spreads across the community. It affects not just the 40 per cent of our people either at school or with a family member who is, but also future generations. We've refocused our education spend, looking at new ways to make the biggest difference, but the priority remains firm.

EDUCATION AND EMPLOYMENT SPOTLIGHT:

Ngati Whakaue Education Endowment Trust

Helping ensure our next generation has the literacy and numeracy skills they need, Rotorua Trust's joint venture with Ngati Whakaue Education Endowment Trust has seen the established and proven programme extend to more schools.

The funding allows hundreds more children to receive support in the crucial skills, and by drawing on the successful programme with almost two decades of experience, the proof is in the results.

The project grant programme allows schools to apply for funding to help implement literacy and numeracy programmes which best fit their school environment. Under the watchful eye of an education consultant, individual schools can tailor the programmes to best suit the needs of their tamariki whether that be bringing in new programmes to accelerate achievement levels, or helping assist smaller groups.

Over the last 17 years the programme has changed the lives of many young people, and with the Trust's boost to extend the programme even further, more students can achieve in the key areas.

EDUCATION AND EMPLOYMENT SPOTLIGHT:

Moving Mountains

For some people, the barriers to getting a drivers licence seem almost insurmountable. Whether it's not having the proper ID to even start the process, the cost for lessons, struggles with literacy or not having a warranted or registered car to sit the licence in – the list can be endless.

But with the support of Rotorua Trust, Moving Mountains NZ is working to break down those barriers and help learners to progress through the graduated drivers licence system. The Rotorua Trust funding has been specifically allocated to those who are ineligible for Government funding, such as those on Studylink, are in financial hardship, whose parents can't afford to pay for their licences or who have recently been released from prison.

The $20,000 funding allowed 44 people to get their license – covering the cost of the licence, the cost of a driving lesson, tutoring, helping to provide a vehicle for a test and the cost of any reinstatement, requalification or ID.

The benefits, however, are far greater than being able to legally drive. The programme also helps participants with a changing perception of Police, builds confidence and self-esteem, helps create a sense of achievement, and helps people to find work.

vibrancy

Supporting a wide range of arts, culture and sporting events adds another layer to the experience of living in Rotorua. We offer smaller, more niche grants to help individual sports codes right through to enabling larger festivals and events in Rotorua for all to experience. This funding helps make Rotorua a vibrant and happening place for our young, our elderly, and everyone in between.

VIBRANCY SPOTLIGHT:

Sir Howard Morrison Performing Arts Centre

The Sir Howard Morrison Performing Arts Centre is the Bay of Plenty's premiere performing arts venue, so when it unexpectedly closed in November 2017 following a seismic assessment, the loss was felt across the community.

With the building identified as earthquake prone at just 25 per cent of new building standards, significant work is needed to make it safe.

Until then, our community has lost its key performing arts and civic events venue, with nothing comparable to host local performances and visiting shows.

The $1.5million grant from Rotorua Trust towards the strengthening and redevelopment project means construction work can now get underway as soon as possible.

This hugely significant donation also means that once the project is complete, rather than just a strengthened building, our community will have access to a quality venue with contemporary spaces, infrastructure and equipment fit for local, national and international performing arts, and worthy of the legacy of Sir Howard Morrison.

VIBRANCY SPOTLIGHT:

Netball Rotorua

With between 2500 and 3000 people involved with netball in Rotorua, the revamp of Rotorua's Netball Courts is a massive boost for players, coaches and umpires alike.

Rotorua Trust contributed $25,000 in the past financial year for the second stage of the court redevelopment, after giving a similar amount for the first stage.

The result is eight new and improved courts, replacing the dull grey asphalt with state of the art facilities including a cushioned hard court made up of polyurethane rubber, fiberglass and other materials, laid on top of concrete.

The court is used year round, with the traditional winter season and a summer league, with talks underway around other sporting codes using the courts too.

For Netball Rotorua, it's a big change from the previous courts which were 25 years old, with the new facilities making it a better experience for everyone involved.

strengthening communities

Our kaupapa is focused on making a better Rotorua for all – and strengthening communities sits at the heart of that. As a Trust, we know that we alone can't solve all of Rotorua's issues but by working with and supporting the amazing groups in the community who are doing the hard mahi, we can make a meaningful impact. The stronger our communities, the better Rotorua will be.

STRENGTHENING COMMUNITIES SPOTLIGHT:

Big Brothers, Big Sisters

We all need someone we can look up to – someone we can rely on. With that in mind, Big Brothers, Big Sisters has been working in Rotorua over the past five years, helping create brighter futures for Rotorua children through long term and meaningful relationships with a positive adult role model.

Last year, Rotorua Trust's $20,000 funding helped the organisation develop the role of a school coordinator, allowing Big Brothers, Big Sisters to expand the programme even further and create more, lasting relationships.

Taking the programme into schools more proactively has seen nine new relationships formed across three schools, with a further 10 mentors being trained so the programme can expand into five schools.

With those taking part recording improved social skills, better attendance at school and increased participation and academic performance, the results speak for themselves.

Investing time and money now, helps save the cost of dealing with more complex issues that may develop over time and with the help of Rotorua Trust, Big Brothers, Big Sisters Rotorua is making a meaningful difference in strengthening our next generation.

STRENGTHENING COMMUNITIES SPOTLIGHT:

Linton Park Community Centre

As a hub of the community, Linton Park Community Centre is the home to dozens of groups – from churches to parenting groups, and a wide range of community support organisations.

With up to 700 people using the centre each month, including very young babies right through to elderly, it's important the centre is warm and dry – and that's where Rotorua Trust funding has helped.

With $25,000 of funding helping to purchase heat pumps, the 1970s centre is now fit-for-purpose and is attracting new groups to use the centre, bringing back crucial income.

The difference is already noticeable, both for those working in the centre and the dozens of groups that use the centre.

The changes have also greatly reduced the cost of power and allow users a warmer and healthier operating environment.

energy and environment

Going back 25 years, it was the sale of Rotorua Electricity Limited which led to the Trust being formed – so it is fitting we have a continued focus on energy and, more broadly, the environment. Fitting with our kaupapa, grants in this area support groups who work to reduce environmental impact and improve energy efficiency. This has the dual benefits of saving money and helping improve our environmental footprint.

ENERGY AND ENVIRONMENT SPOTLIGHT:

Litefoot

Helping clubs become more energy efficient has huge benefits – both for clubs, members and the wider community. Through the LiteClub programme, the Project Litefoot Trust has helped organisations work out how to reduce costs and become more energy efficient, reducing their environmental impact and freeing up money in the process.

The most recent round of funding through the LiteClub Rotorua project – a collaboration between Rotorua Trust, Sport Bay of Plenty and Litefoot – saw the LiteClub programme implemented into five community sports clubs.

Through simple changes, the clubs collectively saved $31,733 over the lifetime of the free products installed. These changes included 147 incandescent bulbs switched to more efficient LED lighting, 18 water-saving devices installed in taps and toilets, conserving approximately 180,000 litres of water each year, two electric hot water cylinders wrapped, and 7.5 metres of lagging to pipes fitted. 15 sorting-at-source bins have been set up around the clubrooms to improve recycling practices. In total, over 13.3 tonnes of CO2 emissions will be prevented from entering the atmosphere.

Warmer, drier and healthier club rooms, combined with helping the environment, have been achieved thanks to the funding contribution of Rotorua Trust and the efforts of Litefoot.

Governance

The Rotorua Energy Charitable Trust (the Trust) is a Charitable Trust established pursuant to the Energy Companies Act 1992. It is incorporated under the Charitable Trust's Act 1957 and the Charities Act 2005.

Role of the Board

The Trust's six Trustees are elected by voters from within the voting district of the Trust on a triennial basis, and are responsible for the direction and supervision of the Trust's business. The Board has determined that its principle responsibility is to oversee the management of the Trust's investments and distribute the income in a manner which balances the needs of today while maintaining a legacy for the future. In meeting this responsibility, the Board approves the adoption of appropriate strategies and objectives and reviews the performance of the Trust against these objectives. It also approves operating and grant budgets and reviews operating performance against budgeted performance.

Delegation of authority

The formulation and implementation of reporting procedures, other than those reserved specifically for the Board, are delegated to management. The Board monitors that delegation as part of the formal business of the Board meetings.

Conflicts of interest

It is recognised that Trustees have a wide range of involvement in the Rotorua district community and as such, the potential for conflict will arise from time to time. In order to cover this eventuality, Trustees who disclose their involvement or relationship with other organisations will have the opportunity to respond to any questions from trustees in respect of any matters in which they have declared an interest, but will leave the meeting before any final discussions or deliberation and voting occur.

Investment

Investment decisions relating to the Trust's Perpetual Capital Fund are undertaken in accordance with the Statement of Investment Policies and Objectives, which has been determined by the Trustees. With the exception of certain legacy investments, which are being exited over time, management of the Trust's investment portfolio has been undertaken by Mercer (NZ) Limited since 1 April 2015.

Grants

Grant requests are received and processed by management. The requests, together with management recommendations, are presented to the Board where a formal decision is made. At the start of each financial year, the Board determines the allocation and level of grant funding to various sectors. The Board also appoints individual Trustees to represent these sectors at monthly Board meetings.

Committees

The Board has formally established two sub-committees to assist with the operation of the Trust.

Executive

SJ Edward and TG Coffey

This committee is responsible for

- Monitoring the systems of corporate governance
- Establishing and reviewing the remuneration policy for the Board
- Reviewing the trust manager's performance and remuneration

Audit

MG Raukawa-Tait, TG Coffey and B Lane (External Member)

This committee is responsible for

- Identifying, assessing and managing business and organisational risk, and assisting the Board in the discharge of its financial reporting responsibilities
- Reviewing the effectiveness of internal control systems
- Providing a formal forum for the Board, auditors and staff
- Ensuring the Board meets financial reporting requirements and that external reporting of information is of a high quality
